

Resources and settlement organizations for those new to British Columbia

Settlement services are available to help skilled immigrants and refugees settle, adapt to their new home and continue their careers in Canada. As well, their staff often have strong knowledge of the emerging career areas and in-demand jobs within the communities they serve. But finding the right services for you might seem complicated; there isn't one organization that serves all the needs of immigrants in a particular community. In working with immigrants to achieve career success, Windmill Microlending understands the value and importance of settlement support. We've put together a list of some organizations, across British Columbia, to help you get established.

Resources

Government of British Columbia Newcomer Resources – Available in multiple languages.

Preparing for Life in British Columbia – Government of Canada overview and links to local resources and services.

Newcomers Guide to Vancouver

First Peoples: A Guide for Newcomers to Vancouver

Government of Canada Local Services Finder – Find free settlement services in your area with this resource.

Windmill's Skilled Immigrant Career Success Guide \(Canada-wide\) – Developed by Windmill Microlending, a free resource filled with tips and advice to support skilled immigrants as they look to restart their careers in Canada.

This province-by-province report is a resource to help new Canadians on their journey to achieve career success and find a career path full of growth and opportunities.

Download the report
